People Picture and Picnic on Puke Ariki landing Saturday 12 December 11:00 am

350ppm is the atmospheric concentration of carbon dioxide that scientists say is the safe upper limit for humanity. We're currently at around 389ppm, and rising at 2ppm per year. World leaders are meeting in Copenhagen right now to decide on a global treaty that will determine how the world responds to the climate change challenge.

We will create a people picture message at 11:00 am.

This will take about 10 mins and will proceed rain, hail or shine so please dress for the weather.
Why not bring some food and picnic on the green.

Many scientists are calling these the most important international negotiations ever, suggesting it could be the world's last chance to avert dangerous climate change.
